

Bengal Cat Spotting Type Scoring Reference Sheet

Primary Spotting Type – The predominant shape of the largest markings in the mid lateral abdomen, after the front leg before the thigh/hip

Confine the area of consideration to mid lateral surface of each cat, below dorsal surface and above ventral surface. Try to confine your consideration to the side abdominal (belly) surface of the cat behind the front legs, before the hips & thigh, below the curve of the body as it turns downward and above where the body turns inward to meet on the chest/abdomen. As you view, TRY NOT TO CONSIDER THE SIZE of the marking ONLY THE SHAPE.

Please rate what you see as follows:

1

Solid spot of any size

2

Arrowhead triangular shape pointing from front to back of cat

3

Pawprint small dots & spots surrounding a larger 3rd color, no spot, dot or line surrounds more than ½ or 50% of the center spot

4

Donut 51% or more than ½ the rosette is surrounded by a solid unbroken line of equal thickness.

5

Clouded Rosette – A donut rosette with a THINNER front edge and THICKER rear edge
